

Stuff
we
love

Mothers Earth

PLANET-FRIENDLY GOODS OUR ECO-CONSCIENCES CAN GET BEHIND.

This must-read is helping me green up my act without costing me a fortune.

STEPH
Creative Director

Stewart, Tabori & Chang book
$20

I feel extra good about snuggling up under this super cute scalloped
blanket, which was made
right here in the USA
with recycled cotton.

ANNA
Editorial Intern

A Happy Habitat by Karrie Kaneda blanket
$150

Every baby knows that blocks
are for stacking, knocking down, and putting in one's mouth [duh]—which is why
this mama is glad to have found a set made from 100
percent organic cotton.

ALYSON
Associate Editor

Apple Park soft blocks
$30

The thought of my sweet cherub tucked inside this cozy organic sleep bag is almost too much to handle.

RACHEL
Associate Editor

Novela Organic sleep bag
$90

A sustainably made
canvas tote with a cool
hand-painted ink drawing?
Sign me up.

SHEA
Fashion & Style Editor

ink & stitch tote
$28

I dare you not to smile
when you see a wee one
dressed in this hilarious
organic bodysuit.

LAUREN
Executive Editor

Lettuce Turnip The Beet
bodysuit
$25

Having something for my son to gum on was a lifesaver
during his teething days.

TRACY
Associate Editor

RINGLEY teething toy
$16

A fabric softener I can feel good about using—finally!

LACEY
Editor in Chief

Method fabric softener
$8

Now that I'm expecting again, I've switched to an all natural deodorant with ingredients like baking soda
and zinc oxide to keep me
feeling fresh without posing
any risk to my baby.

GINNY
Contributing Editor

G.B. Proudfoot's
deodorant $8

